Cladding to be stripped from block as a precaution after fire tragedy

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

CLADDING is to be stripped from a 22-storey Haringey tower block after it was found to be the same as that covering Grenfell Tower.

The cladding at River Apartments, in Cannon Road Tottenham, is being removed and replaced as a safety precaution.

It follows tests which confirmed that the cladding on the main facade of the building is Reynobond PE, which is thought to have contributed to the rapid spread of fire at the west London block in which 79 people are so far known to have lost their lives.

Residents of the shared ownership flats have been informed by the block's owners Newlon Housing Trust and developers Galliford Try Partnerships, which built it, that expert consultants commissioned to determine whether the cladding is safe have advised that panels on the main facade were manufactured in the same way as those at Grenfell Tower.

In a joint statement, they said that they have now received advice that the panels "are the type over which concerns have been raised".

They added: "As a precautionary measure we have decided to remove the cladding and replace it with a suitable, rigorously tested alternative."

They said that they took the health and safety of all residents and users of the building extremely seriously and were doing everything possible to ensure they were safe while the panels were replaced.

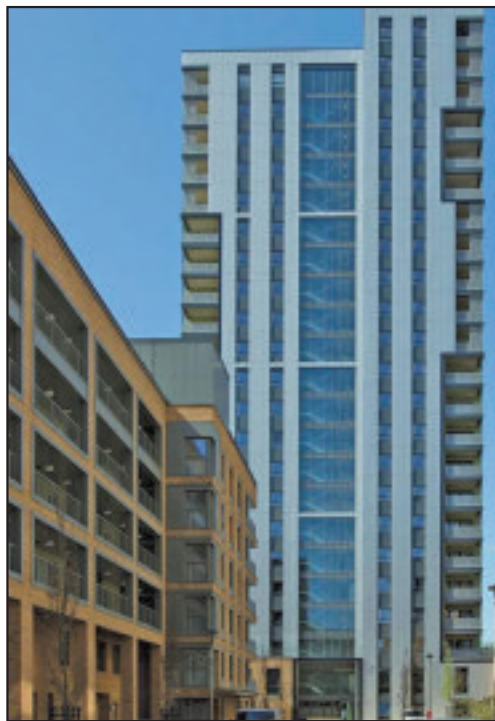

That includes meeting the requirements of fire safety checks carried out last week by the London Fire Brigade.

Unlike Grenfell Tower, the block does contain modern safety features including a sprinkler system, wet risers, fire-fighting lift, smoke ventilation shafts, fire protection lobbies and secured exit routes.

They said that when the block was built between 2012 and 2015 the cladding fitted complied with all the appropriate statutory approvals required including building regulations and building warranty.

No specific date has been given for the removal of the cladding although the statement said they would endeavour to carry it out "as early as possible".

They added: "We thank our residents for their patience and support at this difficult time."

'Precautionary measure': Cladding will be removed from the 22-storey River Apartments, in Tottenham

School's new coach

PUPILS at a primary school are going places, thanks to the donation of a coach.

Richard Desmond, owner of Express Newspapers and founder of publishing giant Northern and Shell, handed the keys to the spanking new coach to Michelle Akarsu, headteacher of The Mulberry Primary School, in Parkhurst Road, Tottenham, as she sat behind the wheel.

The coach was provided by Variety, the Children's Charity, of which Mr Desmond is a long-standing supporter, and was paid for with a donation from The Desmond Foundation, the charitable trust he set up to relieve poverty and sickness among children.

Mr Desmond's wife, Joy, and two children, Angel and Valentine, were also at the presentation and the cab door of the coach bears both youngsters' names as sponsors of the vehicle.

Gun collector jailed

A TOTTENHAM man has been jailed for seven years for acquiring guns while prohibited from owning firearms.

Sultan Meer, of The Roundway, was sentenced at the Old Bailey on Friday after being found guilty in April of a string of firearms-related offences.

He had claimed he was an antique gun collector, but although many of the firearms he took delivery of were old and obsolete, with some dating back to the 1930s, they were still capable of firing bullets.

Nursing home under threat of closure

A NURSING home for the elderly run by Haringey Council is facing the threat of closure after failing to resolve serious shortcomings in standards of safety and quality of care.

A decision to consult on a recommendation to close Osborne Grove, in Tollington Park Road, Finsbury Park, has been agreed by the council's cabinet.

The home has capacity for 36 residents, but currently has only 18 after new placements were banned.

It was placed in special measures after Care Quality Commission checks rated its quality of care "inadequate" overall.

Enforcement warnings were issued that the home was failing to comply with its statutory duty to ensure residents were eating meals and drinking adequate amounts of fluids, medicines were being managed properly and high-risk residents were being monitored correctly.

Follow-up checks found that the problems remained despite an action plan by management and staff to address the issues.

In a report to the cabinet, protracted staffing issues linked to ineffective management, competency and performance issues were blamed.

It said that concerns about the safety and well-being of residents had rendered alternative options to enter into a partnership with the NHS to deliver care to await the outcome of the re-inspection by the CCQ as "untenable".

"We are working closely with Osborne Grove residents and their families to discuss their needs in detail, consider next steps and ensure that residents get the appropriate care while a decision is made about the long-term future of Osborne Grove," says the report.

Concern has been raised by the council's Liberal Democrat opposition that vulnerable residents were at risk of being uprooted.

"The people who use Osborne Grove and their carers are now in a very vulnerable position and the council does not have an alternative council-run nursing home they can send people to," said Pippa Connor, Lib Dem spokeswoman for health and adult care services.

"I hope every effort will be made to ensure the much-needed improvements happen quickly so that during the consultation the people who use Osborne Grove and their carers are given genuine options and that closure is not the only option they are given."

Additional fire safety checks for five blocks

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

ADDITIONAL fire safety checks are to be carried out on cladding covering five of Enfield Council's tower blocks.

Further "in-depth checks" have been deemed necessary after all 54 of the borough's blocks were inspected following the Grenfell Tower disaster.

None of the borough's blocks was found to have the same combustible cladding which is believed to have contributed to the rapid spread of fire at the west London tower block where 79 people so far are known to have lost their lives.

But following the top-to-bottom inspection and audit of Enfield's high-rise homes – which were completed on June 16 – further checks on rainscreen cladding on five of the council's blocks are being carried out with the London Fire Brigade.

The locations of the blocks have not been revealed by the council.

A council spokesman said: "Following the tragic events in Kensington on Tuesday night (June 13), we arranged a top-to-bottom inspection and audit of all of our tower blocks as an additional precaution and completed that process by June 16.

"Five blocks do have rainscreen cladding – but this is not the same cladding as used on Grenfell Tower.

"For some of these blocks we are carrying out in-depth checks with the London Fire Brigade to ensure that residents are safe and that any issues that need to be addressed are dealt with promptly."

Inspections: The burned-out shell of Grenfell Tower in Kensington

Correction: Daniel Alie

IN last week's Advertiser front page story, "Tragedy Triggers Safety Inspections", Barnet and Enfield fire safety liaison officer Daniel Alie, who was in attendance at the Grenfell Tower fire, was incorrectly quoted as saying: "We searched every room in every flat".

Only a percentage of the building had been searched by fire crews at the time of his attendance due to the unprecedented conditions faced.

His actual quote was: "We were making steady progress searching every flat going through every flat and every room" and it specifically related to those flats which were able to be searched at that time.

The quote reported may have given the impression crews had searched all the flats.

We are happy to clarify this.

Sex attack: man jailed

AN Edmonton man, who carried out a serious sexual assault on a 13-year-old runaway boy, was jailed for four years and given a ten-year Sexual Harm Prevention Order at Wood Green Crown Court on Monday.

Daniel McKenzie, 25, of Victoria Road, had been travelling on a bus in Waltham Cross, on August 19 last year when he spotted the victim asleep.

He woke him before offering him a place to stay and giving him cannabis before sexually abusing him at his home.

McKenzie was arrested two months later on unrelated offences of possession of cannabis and theft of a motor vehicle.

His DNA was taken and was found to match the profile of a forensic examination conducted following the sexual offence.

McKenzie was charged with one count of sexual activity with a child under 16 and pleaded guilty at a hearing last month.

The great outdoors: Daniel Raven-Ellison, with Enfield residents Alison Archer and Sue Davey

London's calling...

AN explorer embarking on a month's trek across London's 32 boroughs as part of a campaign to make the capital the world's first National Park City started his mission in Enfield last week.

Daniel Raven-Ellison is raising awareness of the campaign, which aims to make London more green, boost its biodiversity, improve air quality and connect more children to nature.

The 37-year-old, who is a National Geographic magazine explorer, set off from Enfield Island Village, near Sewardstone Marsh, on Friday morning.

The campaign was started three years ago in a bid to make green spaces more accessible to Londoners.

The initiative has been backed by mayor of London Sadiq Khan and 238 council wards across the capital – and requires support from another 86 to turn the idea into reality. Daniel, who is from Ealing, in west London, will walk in a giant spiral around the city and set off from Enfield because it “made sense geographically to start in north London”.

“It’s one of the most beautiful parts of London and it was a great pleasure,” he added.

Daniel met Malcolm Goodwin, vice-principal of Capel Manor College, in Bullsmoor Lane, along the route through Enfield and discussed ways to encourage students to pursue careers around horticultural and arboriculture.

Daniel, who taught geography for seven years, said that while London’s green spaces had been improved, more could be achieved.

“We can do so much to improve the quality of our waterways and create cleaner air,” he explained.

“London is a world leader when it comes to ecology.”

Last year Daniel completed a 1,686km trek across all of the UK’s national parks and cities while wearing an EEG, which recorded his emotions by detecting electrical activity in the brain.

The Wild Cities project explored how nature and areas in the environment can improve quality of life.

Daniel is aiming to complete his current expedition next month in Temple, in central London, on Wednesday, July 26.

“Making London a national park city is an opportunity to make the capital greener, healthier, more active, enjoyable, resilient and prosperous,” added Daniel.

“The great thing is that anyone can be part of it. Just plant something or explore somewhere new and you’ll be living it.”

A fellow of infinite jest

THE discovery of a “skull” in recycling sparked alarm and temporarily halting work while it was thoroughly inspected and revealed to be a replica model.

The recycling team at Enfield Council were given quite a scare on the initial find, which was among a number of odd items discarded including a leg of lamb and false teeth.

Other bizarre items dumped in recycling included a deer’s leg, toilet seats, a dead hedgehog and dog faeces.

Blow-up dolls and vibrators were discovered in recycling bins in 2013.

“It may not quite be Nightmare on Elm Street, but there is a serious side to all this,” said Daniel Anderson, cabinet member for environment.

“Incorrect items thrown into a blue bin can lead to an entire recycling load being rejected and instead being diverted to landfill, which is both financially and environmentally expensive.

“We are proud of the efforts most residents make to recycle

Alas poor Daniel: Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment Daniel Anderson inspects the replica skull and the council is endeavouring to make recycling as easy as possible as part of its campaign to build strong communities,” he added.

“Nonetheless, every year nearly 1,000 tonnes of contaminated recycling material is thrown away simply because people think nothing of tossing any old items into their recycling bins. It’s got to stop.”

Magical day out

YOUNGSTERS were enchanted by a magical fairy forest which officially opened to the public for the Mayor’s Day event at Capel Manor College and Gardens.

More than 1,200 visitors attended the annual event, which coincided with the college’s open day.

A total of 42 mayors from London boroughs and across Hertfordshire were invited to meet mayor of Enfield Christine Hamilton when she opened the newly constructed fairy forest in woodland on the 30-acre site.

Visitors can follow a path and spot a variety of flowers at different times of the year, inspired by Cicely Mary Barker’s flower fairies in her children’s books published in the early 1900s.

Bronze painted fairies have also been dotted around the forest along with gnomes, wind charms and a magical archway.

Youngsters can search for fairy illustrations using a map as part of an activity called Stamp Point, which has been set up around the gardens, including other pictures such as the amphitheatre.

They can also make a wish by planting a magic coin in a tree in the forest.

The fairy forest was created as part of a project for students studying horticulture and arboriculture.

“It’s been an integral part of the students’ course,” said Julie Melady, marketing and events manager at Capel Manor, in Bullsmoor Lane, Enfield.

“The fairy forest is a work in progress and something that will keep on going.”

Visitors also had a chance to meet the collection of exotic animals at the college’s expanding zoo including the new addition of three dwarf crocodiles.

Stephen Dowbiggin, principal at the college, said: “It was a magical event in every sense of the word with 41 mayors, three fairies, the mayor of Enfield and the gardens looking more beautiful than ever.”

Spell of happiness: Youngsters with mayor of Enfield Christine Hamilton at Capel Manor College

'I've been getting lost frequently'

New MP admits he's still learning parliamentary ropes

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

LESS than a fortnight ago the people of Enfield Southgate voted for Bambos Charalambous to be their new MP.

The Labour underdog and Enfield councillor – who was never expected to win – beat David Burrowes, who had been the constituency MP from 2005 to 2017, by a whopping nine per cent, bagging a 4,355-vote majority and shocking and delighting voters in equal measure.

It was surreal. He recalls: "It was a surprise in some ways, but I was getting information throughout the evening and it looked as if we were going to do it."

"We'd had a targeted campaign – people were unhappy about Brexit and lack of funding for schools, and, of course, there were lots of voters suddenly coming of age who were behind Labour."

"The rappers, the young people, they were all engaging with politics, many of them for the first time."

Now in Westminster, flanked by machine gun-carrying police officers, he's like the new boy at school.

He keeps getting lost as he tries to find his way around the tiled passageways, plush green carpeted stairs and dark underground corridors.

He said: "I've been getting lost frequently. It's a rabbit warren. Stephen [Twigg] has been showing me round. The other day he took me down a corridor that pops out behind the Speaker's chair."

Mr Twigg, MP for Liverpool West Derby, is Mr Charalambous' self-appointed "minder" and is, of course, the man who famously ousted Conservative Michael Portillo in Enfield Southgate as Tony Blair's Labour Party swept to power in 1997. Mr Charalambous, 49, of Palmers Green, is keen to be heard and made his maiden speech this week, but has yet to be assigned an office – at the moment he's "squatting" in Mr Twigg's room.

He added: "I'm a lawyer, so I'll be fighting for justice and for education."

"That's what the people of Enfield are really concerned about – funding for schools and a good education for their children."

He's resigned from his legal job with Hackney Council and won't be standing again as a councillor for Palmers Green next year.

He's also decided to say no to his councillor's wage in the meantime because he doesn't think it's right to be getting paid an MP's wage concurrently.

So what's he been doing, apart from getting lost in the corridors of power?

"A big part of the job is answering emails and letters from constituents," he said.

"I was out in New Southgate in the flats opposite Arnos Grove reassuring people following the Grenfell Tower fire."

"And, of course, I've been to a few summer fairs and school fetes."

"And fielding calls from Cyprus."

He's the first MP who is wholly Cypriot – both his parents are from Cyprus.

Journalists have been turning up to the village in Cyprus where his family lives asking cousins and aunts for a story.

As if on cue, approaching Westminster Abbey, a tourist in a Yankees cap shakes his hand, saying "Well done, well done! That was a great job, congratulations."

"I didn't vote for you, but I would have done. I'm from Chipping Barnet."

'Fighting for justice and education': New Enfield Southgate MP Bambos Charalambous

Trio who smuggled cocaine into UK are handed lengthy jail terms

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

THREE Enfield men who were part of a drugs gang supplying cocaine smuggled into the UK have received lengthy jail terms.

Ringleader Anastasios Pisiridis, 37 – also known as Andreas Lamprou – of Florence Avenue, Enfield, was sent to prison for 14 years at Wood Green Crown Court Faskai Arsen, 29 – also known as Alexandros Michailidis – of Wigston Close, Edmon-ton, was given 10 years.

Brooklyn Wicks, 25, of Holmwood Road, Enfield Lock, was jailed for five years.

Lorry driver Georgi Minchev, 29, a Bulgarian national, was sentenced to 11 years and six months in prison.

All four defendants had previously pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to import and supply class A drugs at the same court on February 3.

The drugs were smuggled by Minchev and handed over in pre-arranged pick-ups which often took place at a lay-by on the A10 Great Cambridge Road in Enfield.

Pisiridis organised the operation and his accomplices Wicks and Arsen would collect the packages of drugs from Minchev.

Police had been keeping them under surveillance and in October 3 last year Wicks was arrested after he was spotted collecting a large bag from Minchev on the A10.

He had driven off with bag before being stopped by police, but before he was apprehended he had discarded a number of packages from the car which when recovered were found to contain 7kgs of cocaine.

A month later, on November 23, another exchange was carried out on the A10, this time between Minchev and Arsen, who received a package containing 4kgs of cocaine.

Both men arrested and following a search of Arsen's car with assistance from a police search dog cocaine was recovered concealed in a hideaway.

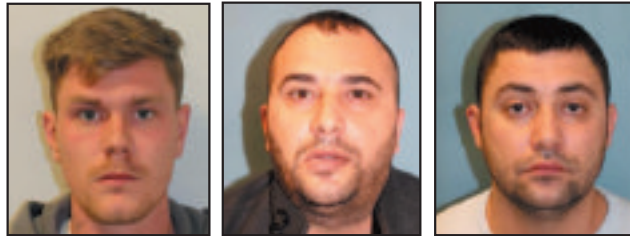

On the same day, Pisiridis was arrested a short distance away on the A10 after officers had spotted him acting as a look-out after driving past Minchev's lorry before the exchange.

A search of Pisiridis's home uncovered £44,000 in cash inside a safe and officers seized £2,000 in cash from Arsen's home along with five 1kg blocks of cocaine stashed inside a kitchen cupboard.

Speaking after they were jailed, Detective Inspector Andy Whitewood, of the Met Police's Specialist Intelligence Section, said: "Drugs and associated criminality cause a huge amount of harm to local communities, so this operation and result is good news for the people of Enfield.

"Pisiridis was organising for these drugs to be brought into the UK and arranging for them to then be distributed across the Enfield area, which would have fuelled other criminality and antisocial behaviour.

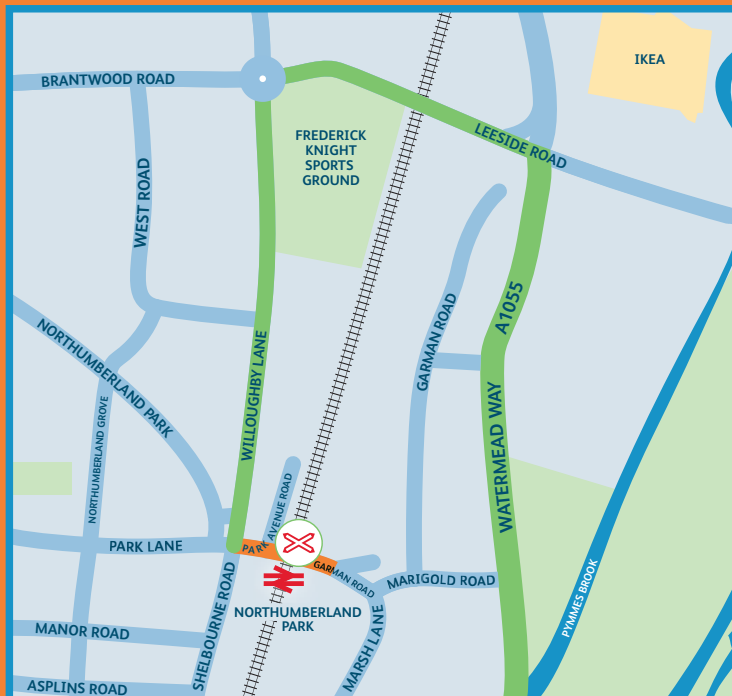

"This is an excellent result and is the culmination of several months of hard work by the Organised Crime Command investigating the case," added Det Insp Whitewood.

Jailed: Brooklyn Wicks, Anastasios Pisiridis and Faskai Arsen, left, were members of a drugs gang which smuggled cocaine into the UK. All three have been handed lengthy custodial sentences at Wood Green Crown Court

Getting in the swing: John Koupparis, Bradley Gardner, Matt Collins and Luke Wintour completed 72 holes in a day

Foursome do the rounds for charity fundraiser

FOUR young Enfield pals needed stamina and drive in strength-sapping heat as they played a total of 72 holes of golf in a day on different courses to raise funds for a cancer charity.

The friends were taking part in Macmillan Cancer Support's Longest Day Challenge last Wednesday with teams across the UK signing up to play four rounds of golf either on the same course or at different courses.

And far from a relaxing stroll it became a 17-hour feat of endurance for John Koupparis, 19, Matt Collins, 21, and Luke Wintour and Bradley Gardner, both 20, playing 18 holes and then travelling between courses.

John, of Madeira Road, Palmers Green, has a relative who has cancer and that inspired him to rope in his pals, all of whom are keen golfers like himself.

It was a crack-of-dawn start for the foursome as they teed off at sunrise at Hadley Wood Golf Club, in Beech Hill. By midday they had competed 18 more holes at Enfield Golf Club, in Old Park Road South, before taking a 20-minute break for lunch and a shower.

John and Matthew took it in turns to drive the four between courses. Then it was off to Whitewebbs Golf Club, in Clay Hill, Enfield, to play a round before, tired and exhausted, they teed off for 18 more holes at Crews Hill Golf Club, in Cattlegate Road, finally reaching the 19th hole at 9.15pm.

"The last course was the hardest," explained John. "We were a bit worse for wear and were trying to keep on going."

The group were met by proud family members and friends, who cheered them on at the last hole and celebrated with drinks in the bar.

"We were looking forward to it and it was something to work towards," said John.

The group had to keep to a strict time frame for each round and had other obstacles to contend with.

"The heat was one of the worst factors," said John.

But the friends motivated each other to keep going throughout the day and they have now raised a total of £3,601.50 on their JustGiving page, plus another £200 in donations.

"I wouldn't have been able to do it by myself," added John, "and it was quite rewarding."

The group, who are keen golfers and play together regularly, will have at least a week's break before embarking on another round.

Dismay as park's Eid party is called off due to safety fears

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

SAFETY concerns over the swelling number of people due to attend led to the cancellation of an Eid celebration party.

Thousands of Muslims were preparing to mark the end of Ramadan at the one-day festival in Pymmes Park, in Edmonton, on Sunday.

But their hopes were dashed and thousands of worshippers from the Assunnah Islamic Centre, in Tottenham, were left "bitterly disappointed" by the event's cancellation.

Enfield Council and the Met Police decided last week that due to safety concerns over the proposed number of people expected to attend the event it could not go ahead – but they were still welcome to go and pray in the park on the same day.

Last year there were 4,000 attendees at the same event and this year organisers predicted there could be up to 7,000.

A council spokesman said: "Due to the overwhelming success of last year's event and late notification that predicted numbers of attendees for this year's event would far exceed capacity, we were reluctantly forced to cancel the Eid Festival at Pymmes Park for safety reasons.

Off: The Eid festival planned for Pymmes Park was cancelled

"The council and the police are of the view that the number of expected attendees, coupled with the size of the park and the geography of the surrounding area, made it impossible for an event of this scale to be safely managed at this location.

"Although this year's event was cancelled, we hope to work with the organisers next year to arrange a successful event at an alternative location. Worshippers were still welcome to attend morning prayers in the park to mark Eid."

The Ramadan month of fasting, during which believers abstain from eating and drinking during daylight hours, started on May 27. The date of Eid depends on the sighting of the new crescent moon and its celebration varies.

The Assunnah Islamic Centre was unwilling to comment in the light of ongoing discussions with the council, other than to say that the community was "extremely upset and disappointed".

Fitting tribute: A ceremony outside Enfield Civic Centre on Armed Forces Day

Tributes paid to armed forces

TRIBUTES were paid to servicemen and women at Enfield's annual Armed Forces Day on Sunday.

The Stow Caledonian Pipe Band led the procession, from the Chase Green war memorial through the centre of the town, where crowds lined the route to pay their respects.

Members of the Royal British Legion, air and sea cadets, serving troops and veterans paraded to the civic centre, in Silver Street, where the armed forces flag was raised.

Two air force cadets who have excelled at training throughout the year were honoured with certificates by mayor of Enfield Christine Hamilton and Deputy Lieutenant of Enfield Ann Cable.

The parade finished with a buffet lunch at the Royal British Legion, in Nags Head Road, Ponders End.

"It went very well," said Brendon Farrell, Enfield branch chairman of the Royal British Legion. "There were a lot of people cheering us on in the town."

"The parade is a way of saying thank you for protecting our country."

Perfectly App-y

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

FORGET the clipboard at the end of the bed, nurses at North Middlesex University Hospital have discovered the perfect tonic – a new app, known as Perfect Ward.

The app, which replaces pen and paper audits, enables the hospital's inpatient wards, emergency department and critical care unit to collect and review important data more quickly, saving each team up to eight hours per week.

It also creates a "live report", which staff can see at the touch of a button as soon as the data is complete.

Corrina Hulkes, one of the hospital's heads of nursing, led a successful trial of Perfect Ward which included 1,000 audits on four inpatient wards.

It proved so successful that the trust has now ordered the software and ipads the team use for all 20 of the hospital's wards, its emergency department and critical care unit.

She said: "Perfect Ward has enabled us to collect the data we need faster so we can spend more time providing high quality patient care and ensuring patients are safe."

"The app is easy to use which means the nursing staff can do it quickly without it impacting on their busy schedules, and being able to see the results immediately means they are able to act on the information

Timesaving device: Karen Jordan, Rainbow ward manager at North Middlesex University Hospital, Deborah Wheeler, director of nursing, and Corrina Hulkes, head of nursing, children and young people and give feedback to the nursing teams, highlight and correct issues at once."

Six audits are carried out each week by a ward manager, head of nursing or a matron. Using the app they take about 30 minutes to complete, compared to about two-and-a-half hours previously.

Deborah Wheeler, director of nursing and midwifery at the hospital, in Sterling Way, Edmonton, said: "Having piloted the app across a number of wards, our staff were clear that it helped them to be much more responsive to their audit findings. They can now focus on sorting things out, rather than spending time on data entry from paper forms."

"Our senior nursing team now can see at a glance the key issues and good practice across all their wards, which also frees them up to support staff in resolving problems."

"After piloting the app, we were clear that we didn't want to go back to paper-based audits!"

MANCHESTER, Westminster, London Bridge, Finsbury Park, knife fatalities.

Terrible events, terrible loss, all of which drive a search for answers.

Why do people perpetrate hate-filled crimes against others, riven by an ability to ignore the victim, fuelled by the glory of the act? But the response from communities is truly inspirational and offers hope and optimism.

On hot summer days, the world might look a little bit less of a good place than it once did. We feel more uneasy, but we cannot retreat into cocoons.

We need to live together, but with confidence about our safety and our communities.

Our essential services, whether hospitals, housing, food inspections, transport, water, gas, electricity, police, fire, must be set up and financed for the public good and be adequately funded.

Only with common bonds and strong communities can we have a better society.

At the heart of that must be a sense of making things better – but that does mean sometimes making things different.

Huge regeneration projects for long-term betterment invariably bring short-term disruption and inconvenience.

Building better homes, improving transport, and creating jobs are absolutely essential for the future prosperity and well-being of our borough.

We need answers after blaze

THE fire at Grenfell Tower was a tragedy and all our thoughts are with the victims, those who have lost loved ones and the people who are still waiting to know the fate of family members and friends.

More must be done to prevent another fire of this kind happening again. Haringey Liberal Democrats believe that fire and planning regulations must be tightened for tall buildings to ensure they are as safe as can be. Clearly, this kind of flammable cladding for buildings must also be banned.

Locally, I have written to Haringey

Council to ask a series of questions about fire safety in tall buildings in our borough. I have asked if any tall buildings have the dangerous cladding, do not have sprinklers, do not have adequate escape routes and do not have working fire alarms.

I believe these questions must be answered urgently, so we can be sure all tall buildings are safe in the borough, regardless of whether they are council owned or privately owned.

Elderly victim's been failed by the system

AT Action on Elder Abuse, we read with great dismay your story (June 14) about Mairead Tansley, the "carer" who was jailed after leaving the vulnerable older man she was paid to care for in a state of "extreme neglect".

It is worth noting that this case highlights a major regulatory failing in our care system.

For Ms Tansley was not an "unregistered carer", but a "personal assistant", a role which the government chose to remove from the regulations that govern those working in similar roles with vulnerable people, such as home helps.

She was not acting outside the law, but well within it.

It is inevitable that this hands-off approach from the government will sometimes end in terrible situations like the one we have seen here.

Leaving such relationships unbound by any sort of regulation or code of practice is a recipe for disaster.

Being "empowered" to manage your own care should not mean increasing the potential for unscrupulous people to abuse or neglect you. And as too often happens in cases in which the victim is an older person, the sentence handed out was insulting – just nine months for leaving a 90-year-old "emaciated, dehydrated and delirious".

In what way is that a deterrent? In what way does that punishment fit the crime?

The victim here has been failed by a system that facilitated a cruel and heartless woman to obtain a position of trust, failed by the criminal who entered his home and failed finally by the justice system which, yet again, has shown that it has little regard for the suffering of older people.

Surprising result shows that democracy is alive and well

HAVING knocked on hundreds of doors in the past six weeks, asking people which party or candidate they might support I would like to place on record the polite and courteous manner with which I (and I would expect canvassers of all parties) was given information even when people held opposing views to the party I represent.

We are fortunate in this country to have a vibrant democracy which frequently delivers outcomes that pollsters and others have not predicted.

I congratulate all who were elected and commiserate with those who lost their seat in parliament.

As a country we elected a minority government and we must all give it the space to succeed especially in the Brexit negotiations which affect us all.

Big Stitch can be a big help

IF you want to stand out from the fashion crowd, improve your sewing skills or just want a fun way to raise money for charity, the BHF (British Heart Foundation) has the perfect solution.

I'm calling on all keen and novice sewers to take part in The Big Stitch in July by heading to your nearest BHF shop, buying an item and injecting your own fashion flair to it by practising sewing and dressmaking skills.

Every item bought and revamped throughout July will bring us one step closer to ending the devastation caused by heart disease.

Every year, heart and circulatory disease kills about 13,500 in London and 716,000 people in the city are living with its burden, so the need to find new ways to prevent, diagnose and treat these terrible conditions is more urgent than ever.

What's more, if you post your "before" and "after" picture on social media throughout July, tagging the BHF on Twitter, Instagram or on the BHF's Facebook page and using the hashtag #TheBigStitch, you will be in with a chance of winning a special night out at a London West End show with YouTube sensation, Just Jodes, for you and a friend.

With about 750 BHF shops nationwide, join thousands of style-seekers across the UK, all while learning invaluable skills and helping the BHF fund life-saving research into heart disease.

Call it payback for Brexit, David

I MUST say I did find it hard not to smile on hearing David Burrowes had lost his Enfield Southgate seat.

A NIMBLE-fingered seamstress who has designed costumes for well-known ballet stars – including Darcey Bussell – is back in the limelight at the age of 74.

Needlework maestro Georgie Perrott worked for the Royal Ballet at the Royal Opera House, in Covent Garden, for 39 years, creating fabulous outfits for dancers.

Now she has won a national competition for her knitting and crochet skills that will see her teaching the younger generation how to do it.

Georgie, who lives in Baker Street, Enfield, entered the competition called Grandfest, run by retirement house builders McCarthy and Stone and the Royal Voluntary Service.

The idea behind Grandfest is for the older generation to show off skills they have learned over the years – from knitting to jam making, from crocheting to flower arranging.

Georgie said: "I am extremely privileged to have been selected as a Grandmaker and I am looking forward to sharing my skills and expertise with guests during the day."

"Knitting, crocheting, embroidering and lace making are all traditional skills that are unfortunately dying crafts."

"I hope my masterclass will spark the love I have for needlework in others and spread awareness of this beautiful craft among younger generations."

Georgie was introduced to her needlework skills at a young age by her mother, who taught her how to knit, and her aunt, who taught her how to crochet and cross-stitch.

Now Georgie is part of a Knit and

Ain't life grand: Competition winner Georgie Perrott

Natter group, where she has taught others how to crochet.

TV personality Gloria Hunniford will be joining in Georgie's masterclass next month in Denham, Buckinghamshire.

Vine and dandy

Grape stuff: A volunteer tends last year's crop

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

GROWERS are proposing a toast at Forty Hall Vineyard after being shortlisted for this year's prestigious organic market awards.

The BOOM (Best of Organic Market) awards are the UK's only dedicated accolades celebrating people, producers, restaurants and brands working to make "food as it should be".

The Enfield-based business impressed judges with its 2014 Vintage London Sparkling Brut.

It was only a couple of years ago that the vineyard, in Forty Hill, produced enough of its healthy organic grapes to be turned into wine, bottled and sold.

Jenny Patton, volunteer and marketing officer at Forty Hall Vineyard, said: "We are delighted to have been shortlisted for a BOOM award.

"We pride ourselves in the relationship we have with our environment and the top quality wines we are able to produce."

The vineyard is a community-run enterprise. It is the biggest vineyard in London and is run by scores of volunteers.

Hospital patients are often referred there because of the proven links between working outside and improved mental health.

The winners of the BOOM awards will be announced at a ceremony in central London next Wednesday (July 5).

High praise indeed: Staff at the Chase Farm's endoscopy unit, which opened last year

Team effort does us all proud

By Adrian Colley

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A HAPPY hospital unit has scooped high praise and been commended for its excellence.

Chase Farm Hospital's endoscopy unit has been dubbed a "service to be proud of" since it opened last year.

The quality assurance accreditation comes from the Joint Advisory Group on gastrointestinal endoscopy, which sets standards.

The unit at the hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, was opened in January 2016 for patients to undergo a range of procedures, such as a colonoscopy.

It has four procedure rooms and 13 individual patient pods.

Dr Edward Despott, consultant gastroenterologist, said: "This is an important badge of quality for the unit and shows that patients are getting the very best in terms of their experience and treatment."

"It also shows we are achieving a high level of clinical quality."

The assessors said that the team had built "a service to be proud of".

They added: "The environment alone does not make a great service."

"However, the combination of excellent facilities and good, safe practices offers patients a quality experience at Chase Farm."

"The service has a competent and happy workforce in all areas and this is a testament to the excellent and committed leadership team in the service."

"The design, with its individualised pods, is one of the best that we have seen. There is an excellent culture of safety and learning in the service and this is evident through governance meetings and safety audits."

Chimney stack struck by lightning

A LIGHTNING strike brought down part of a chimney stack on a house in Enfield yesterday (Tuesday) morning.

The bolt of lightning damaged the roof of the two-storey house in Manor Farm Road following a sudden thunderstorm.

Nobody was injured in the incident which happened at 11.55am.

Firefighters from both the London Fire Brigade and Hertfordshire Fire Brigade attended.

Checks were carried out to ensure there was no serious structural damage to the building before it was declared safe.

Brotherhood of Man

Back to the 1960s: The Manfreds

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

SINGER Paul Jones and other original members of 1960s' chart-toppers Manfred Mann are performing the string of smash hits the band had in their heyday at Millfield Theatre, in Silver Street, Edmonton, tomorrow (Thursday).

With hits including Do Wah Diddy Diddy, 5-4-3-2-1, Pretty Flamingo, Sha La La, Semi detached Suburban Mr James, High Time, If You Gotta Go, Go Now, Ha Ha Said The Clown and Mighty Quinn, the band is acknowledged as one of the finest of the era.

Now reformed as splinter group The Manfreds, without eponymous founder Manfred Mann, they will also be performing new material from Makin' Tracks, their fifth album since reuniting 26 years ago.

It's 55 years since the original Manfred Mann rose to prominence and original members Paul Jones (harmonica and vocals), Tom McGuinness (guitars) and Mike Hugg (keyboards) are all in their 70s, yet are still touring and recording and showing no signs of slowing down.

They are joined by stalwarts Marcus Cliffe (bass), Simon Currie (flute and saxophone) and Rob Townsend (drums).

After the original Manfred Mann split up in 1969 (Jones having already departed in 1966), members of the band enjoyed solo success – Jones as an actor and founder of The Blues Band, McGuinness in McGuinness Flint and Hugg composing film scores as well as co-writing the theme tune to the TV comedy series The Likely Lads.

They reformed in 1991 for McGuinness's 50th birthday and enjoyed it so much they have continued touring and have no plans to stop.

"We all enjoy it too much," he said.

"It's great getting paid to do what you love for a living and it's far too late now for me to get a 'proper' job."

He says the band will concentrate on some of the earlier bluesy material as well as playing a lot of the hits and a few tracks off the new album.

"It will be a great night as Paul always gets the audience going and it's great hearing them join in all the songs," added McGuinness.

As a fascinating historical footnote before Jones joined Manfred Mann, he turned down an offer to be the singer with a band Keith Richards and Brian Jones were forming.

That band became The Rolling Stones and the relatively unknown Mick Jagger landed the job Jones didn't want.

BABY DRIVER (15, 113 mins)

IN 2003, before he licked the Three Flavours Cornetto trilogy of Shaun Of The Dead, Hot Fuzz and The World's End, director Edgar Wright staged a comical bank robbery in the music video for techno duo Mint Royale's catchy Blue Song.

The Dorset-born filmmaker expands on that simple premise in Baby Driver, a high-octane crime caper which gleefully burns rubber to a toe-tapping soundtrack.

The stellar ensemble cast wore tiny ear-pieces on set so they could synchronise their characters' dialogue and movements to the rhythm and harmonies of The Beach Boys, Dave Brubeck, T.Rex, Martha and The Vandellas, Blur, Queen and Simon and Garfunkel.

It's a daring stylistic conceit that runs the risk of leaving audiences choking on the exhaust fumes of Wright's bold ambition.

Thankfully, the writer-director packs plenty of substance beneath the bonnet of his well-oiled machine, opening with a dizzying flourish set to Bellbottoms by Jon Spencer Blues Explosion.

Expertly staged car chases get the adrenaline pumping as rising star Ansel Elgort, who broke teenage hearts in The Fault In Our Stars, comes of age with aplomb as the eponymous speed demon.

He plays Baby, who has suffered tinnitus since the age of seven when he was involved in a horrific car accident that killed his parents.

In order to drown out the ringing in one ear, he listens to music at a deafening volume, which allows Baby to focus on his duties as a getaway driver for criminal mastermind Doc (Kevin Spacey).

Each heist pays off a fraction of the

Built for speed

Getaway driver:

Pictures Industries,

dues that Baby owes Doc. For his final drive, Baby must assist Buddy (Jon Hamm), his fiery girlfriend Darling (Eiza Gonzalez) and trigger-happy rebel Bats (Jamie Foxx) to pilfer millions of dollars in money order slips.

As the plan takes shape, Baby kindles romance with diner waitress Debora (Lily James), who is desperate to leave town.

"In this job, the moment you catch feelings is the moment you catch a bullet," warns Bats.

Baby's cut from the robbery should allow him to chauffeur Debora to that brighter future, presuming Doc's plan doesn't go awry at the last minute...

Baby Driver is a bombastic blast, with at least one explosion of shocking violence that hammers home the perilously high stakes.

Hamm and Gonzalez catalyse smouldering screen chemistry while Foxx savours his role as a livewire and Spacey oozes menace as the Mr Big.

A frenetic final act almost runs out of gas, but Wright's verve and Elgort's endearing performance carry the picture past the chequered flag.

After the latest batch of luxurious homes were snapped up by eager buyers, Dandara has announced the release of its final three-bedroom property – The Deane – at its much sought after Cheshunt development, The Cardinals.

With prices starting from £475,000, Dandara, the award-winning property developer, is renowned for its stylish and elegant contemporary builds and the last of its three-bedroom homes is no different.

From a fitted kitchen by Moores with appliances by AEG and Zanussi, to sophisticated bathrooms accentuated by Sottini sanitaryware and ceramic floor tiling, The Deane house type is a spacious semi-detached family home, carefully crafted to handle the rigours of modern family living.

Based in the centre of Cheshunt, The Cardinals is situated on the former site of St Mary's High School on Churchgate.

Susie Bennett, Dandara's UK Sales Director for the South East, said: "This really is the last chance for those who are interested in purchasing one of our beautiful three-bedroom homes and we do not expect the final property to be on the market for long."

"Situating less than 1.5 miles from Cheshunt Rail Station, with direct services to London Liverpool Street taking under 25 minutes, the location of The Cardinals is fantastic."

"At Dandara, we know what it takes to make a house, a home. We invest in research and development and spend time talking with our customers to create practical, comfortable homes that provide quality and value for years to come."

For added peace of mind, all properties sold at The Cardinals include a 10-year structural warranty and a two-year Dandara warranty. Dandara also has a dedicated customer care team ready to answer queries and concerns. To register your interest in The Cardinals, please call 01992 630255 or visit www.cardinalscheschunt.co.uk

Sporty – but also practical

By Simon Davis

THE formula for the BMW 4 Series is a simple one. Take one regular 3 Series, remove the rear doors for a sportier, coupe body style and slap a 4 Series badge on the back.

The 440i Coupe we have here – with the exception of the barnstorming M4 – is the flagship model in the 4 Series line-up.

To the untrained eye, the changes to this latest version are rather subtle.

The exterior has been gently redesigned, with some fancy LED lights appearing at the front and rear of the car.

Inside, BMW has worked to improve the cabin's "perceived quality", adding three new upholstery colours to the options list, as well as three new choices for interior trim strips.

While it might be a familiar shape, there's no denying the facelifted

BMW 440i is still an incredibly smart-looking car.

It cuts the right balance between muscular athleticism and reserved refinement, giving it a near-perfect Q-car appearance – particularly on the smaller wheels and winter tyres that were fitted to our test car.

Open the door and lower yourself into the snug seats and you'll find a cabin that oozes quality in that classic BMW fashion.

Everything feels purposeful and solidly put together, while the controls all fall easily to hand. Hard, scratchy plastics are tough to find, with only a small amount adorning the lower reaches of the doors.

However, while the BMW's interior might look the part, the seats fitted to our test car were on the firm side, leaving us feeling rather stiff after an afternoon blatting around the German countryside.

Up front, the driver and passenger will find head and shoulder room more than abundant. While this might be a sports coupe, you'll feel a long way from claustrophobic.

Aside from the rather unforgiving seats, complaints should be kept to a minimum in this department.

Yes, the 440i does have a set of rear seats – although you'll find them close to useless when it comes to ferrying around anyone other than children. Stick to the 3 Series if you want properly usable back seats.

Boot space is abundant, with the 440i offering up a respectable 425 litres of storage capacity – more than enough to swallow a couple of suitcases.

Prices for the 440i start at a considerable £43,430 – meaning it isn't exactly a cheap car to buy.

That said, however, it is only available in the M Sport trim, which does include a fair amount of goodies as standard, such as 18-inch alloys, M

Sport suspension, satellite navigation, more aggressive body styling, leather upholstery and LED headlamps and tail lamps.

A particular highlight is the 440i's infotainment system, which is arguably one of the best currently on sale.

The dash-mounted display is incredibly fluid and very easy to read. The head-up display that is included as part of the BMW Professional Plus package is also a nice touch, showing information such as speed and sat-nav prompts directly in the driver's line of sight and reducing time spent with your eyes off the road.

The BMW 440i is targeted at successful, middle-aged buyers who want the sportiness that its 3.0-litre, six-cylinder engine provides, without the high-performance set-up of the M4. To many, the 440i will offer the perfect balance between everyday drivability and high-speed fun.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'IT' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified listings and semi-displays) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect of an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search of a credit referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Defeat deals blow to title aspirations

NORTH MIDDLESEX suffered a setback in their bid to be crowned champions of the Premier Division of the Kingspan Middlesex County Cricket League on Saturday as they fell to a shock three-wicket defeat at home to lowly Stanmore.

Evan Flowers (57) was the only man to come to terms with the wicket for North Middlesex as they were dismissed for 154, with Paul McIver (4-53), Marc Reingold (3-22) and Shailen Assani (3-41) sharing the wickets between them.

Jason Shield (46) and Kush Patel (40) played well for the visitors in reply, and some good bowling from Ravi Patel (4-56) was not enough for the hosts as Stanmore made it to 155-7.

Meanwhile, second division action saw Hornsey ease to a six-wicket win at home to local rivals North London to climb out of the relegation zone.

Jack Bruce (6-23) shone with the ball for the hosts as North London could only make 151, despite an unbeaten 42 from James Battock.

Paul Weekes then struck 73 not out to help Hornsey ease to 152-4 in reply to give them a win which leaves North London rooted to the foot of the table.

Elsewhere, Highgate remain in top spot in Division Two following their comprehensive eight-wicket triumph at Indian Gymkhana.

Edward Foster (3-32), Craig Gourlay (3-33) and David Monk (2-24) impressed with the ball for the visitors as Indian Gymkhana could only make 133 batting first.

Highgate lost two early wickets in reply, but Scott Elstone (70 not out) and Shane McNamara (51 not out) then shared in an unbroken stand of 116 to guide them to victory as they eased to 134-2.

Lessons learnt: Hugo Lloris believes Spurs will do better in the Champions League

WE WILL IMPROVE

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

SKIPPER Hugo Lloris is adamant that Tottenham Hotspur will be better prepared for the Champions League next season following their disappointing performances in the competition last time around.

Spurs struggled to make an impact in the Champions League last season, losing to eventual semi-finalists Monaco home and away and also being beaten at home by Bayer Leverkusen as they were eliminated at the group stages despite a comfortable victory against CSKA Moscow in their last match.

A second-placed finish in the Premier League means that they have again qualified automatically for the group stages of the Champions League next season, and Lloris is confident that they will have learned from their experiences of 12 months ago.

"The only disappointment was the Champions League," the goalkeeper said. "That was a strange campaign. It wasn't Tottenham, it wasn't our identity and we can have some regrets.

"I did question how we might deal with that back in the Premier League because we fought all season to get into the Champions League and as soon as you are there, you fail – and not just the results but the way we played.

"The reaction of the team was fantastic though and, step by step, we became stronger and stronger. That means we learned from our mistakes and that's positive."

Meanwhile, Erik Lamela and Danny Rose are both expected to miss the start of the new season as they continue their recovery from long-term injuries.

Argentina forward Lamela underwent surgery on a hip problem in early April after spending much of the season on the sidelines and is unlikely to have regained full fitness in time for Spurs' Premier League opener at Newcastle United in August.

And left-back Rose is not expected to be fit until September as he recovers from surgery on a damaged knee which has kept him out of action since the end of January.

Rose's enforced absence resulted in Ben Davies being given an extended run in the side at left-back, and the Welsh international admitted that he had enjoyed featuring on a regular basis.

"I think it's been nice to have a run of games," he said. "Especially as a full-back, every game has to be about consistency and the more games you can play in a row the better really.

"When you get that run of games, you get that little bit sharper, a little bit fresher and sometimes that just comes with playing. It's been nice to have got a couple of goals as well. I've really enjoyed playing in the last few months and I feel I've been doing alright."

Skolars struggling to make top eight

THE London Skolars face a hugely uphill task if they are to secure a top-eight spot when rugby league's Kingstone Press League One splits in two next month following their 20-10 defeat at home to Barrow Raiders on Saturday.

Although the Skolars battled hard against a side who are lying third in the table, they ultimately came up short and must now win their last three matches of the regular season in order to have any chance of securing a coveted place in the top eight.

It was the hosts who struck first on 15 minutes when player-coach Jermaine Coleman's perfectly timed pass to Lamont Bryan opened up the defence and he was able to race to the line. Jy-Mel Coleman converted.

However, Barrow hit back and levelled the scores six minutes later as Oliver Wilkes touched down under the posts to leave Lewis Charnock with a simple conversion.

Josh Allison put the Skolars back ahead with a try on 27 minutes, but they were to be the final points that the hosts scored in the match and a converted try from Nathan Mossop coupled with a Charnock penalty gave the visitors a 14-10 lead at the interval.

Barrow dominated the start of the second half but only had another Charnock penalty to show for their efforts, and they were then forced to overcome a sustained spell of pressure as the hosts looked to hit back.

But the Skolars were unable to break through and their fate was sealed when Jamie Dallimore kicked two penalties in the last five minutes to seal the visitors' triumph.
